

You See Red

When a days work is done and you're down on the ground

You come home just to find that she's not around.

You see red, you see red, when she takes you for a fool.

You see red, you see red, read the writing on the wall.

What you give is what you get, when it comes to loving.

If you lie, make her cry, she will leave you alone.

You see red, you see red, when she takes you for a fool.

You see red, you see red, read the writing on the wall.

So you drink your gin,

And drown your sorrows

Don't expect a tomorrow.

Wasting away ain't no way to say

That you're sorry

For what you have done.

When a day's work is done and you're down on the ground

You come home just to find that she's not around.

You see red, you see red, when she takes you for a fool.

You see red, you see red, read the writing on the wall.
